District Attorney Jerome announced his decision to free Nan Patterson in a speech, in the course of which he declared that during two of the trials of the girl all the evidence in the possession of the district attorney's office had been presented to the court, and that in both cases there had been a disagreement. The said that he did not believe at this time "In this county another trial would result in anything else than a disagreement." Then he declared that during the last trial he had information that the men. Then he declared that during the last trial he had information that the members of the jury had agreed that J. Morgan Smith had bought the revolver; that Kan Patterson carried it in the cab, and "Caesar" Young did not commit suicide. He took occasion to refute published reports as to the cost of the proceedings. Following this line, he declared that the newspapers had made gross misrepresentations, and then said:

"This case has caused one more step in this county toward trial by newspapers, rather than trial by jury. I do not refer to 'those papers which have merely reported the proceedings, but to those that in their editorial rooms have labored to arouse sympathy for the prisoner, with the result of a serious miscarriage of justice. Everything that the prosecution has done had my cordial and hearty approbation. I fear nothing for myself or my assistants. My assistants did rightly, bravely, honestly, and went forward with my entire and perfect approbation."

Mr. Jerome concluded with the motion that Nan Patterson be discharged on her own recognizance. It was then that Miss Patterson was sent for, and as a court officer met her in her cell, he said: "Come on, Nan. It is all right; you are going free."

Hecorder Goff, the venerable judge who has tried so many famous criminal cases, met the eyes of the girl as she walked slowly into the court room and took the same seat which she occupied during the trying days of her last trial. "Nan Patterson," he said slowly, "the district attorney has seen fit to recommend your discharge. I feel bound to say I fully coincide in the decision. There is nothing I can say in this case that has not already been said, but let me entreat you in your future life to remember the terrible ordeal through which you have passed, and to permit every action of your life to be guided by that remembrance. Good-bye," and the recordeer bowed his head as he uttered the final word and closed the case.

The Conference of Eastern Public Edu cation Associations adjourned yesterday, after a session of nearly four days in instructive and helpful to the teachers

Rev. 'S. C. Mitchell, of the Richmond College, one of the best platform speakers in the educational field in the South, substituted for Chancellor Hill, of the University of Georgia, and spoice on the topic, "Rural Schools and Their Needs in Manual Arts." Dr. Mitchell is always an interesting speaker, and though he had had little time to prepare his address, he made a strong presentation of the benefits to rural communities of manual training and industrial education generally.

BAPTISTS HEAR

Kentucky. The house was packed to its utmost capacity, and two large neighboring churches were full with "overflow" congregations, with a policeman at the door refusing another admission. Taking as his text Romans itis, Dr. Fellx drew a vivid sketch of the need of the world and our obligation to give the gospel to the whole world.

The commission appointed to report on the best method of work among the negroes, consisting of one from each State, reported through its chalman, Dr. Dawson, of Alabama, in an able and elaborate report, in which it was urged that as the States of the South are appropriating about one hundred million dollars for the secular education of the negro, the chief duty of the convention is to promote this religious instruction, and the best method of doing that is through the Home Mission Board, which already has the matter in hand, and in whose judgment and zeal the fullest condense is felt. This report, which was the unanimous judgment of the committee, was unanimously adopted by the convention.

FOREIGN MISSION REPORT

Contributions Larger Than Ever Before in Board's History.

Before in Board's Filstorly.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

(RANSAS CITY, MO., May 12-Rev.
Dr. R. J. Willingham, corresponding secretary of the Foreign Mission Board, read the report for the year closions april 30th. The gist of the report is contained in the following summary:

"Never in our history have we so successfully lengthened the cords and strengthened the stakes. Two thousand, two hundred and thirty-one baptisms were reported for the year. A number of new churches organized. The receipts in for work were organized. The receipts in for work were organized. The receipts in for work were organized.

In the history of the Board. For the eighth year in succession we report with thankfulness and joy all accounts paid in full and no debt, and this, too, after a great enlargement of our work. With largest receipts, and largest number of converts, we report the largest number of new missionarios ever sent out in one year. Fifty recruits have gone during the year to the foreign fields. These nohle, consecrated men and women represent some of the very best fruitage of our church life, and will add greatly to the working forces at the front. The Board cannot send all who apply to go;
some are not suited for the work. We try to got those of deep consecration, good preparation and sound bodies, who can stand and work e clently for our Father.
Some of our largest and best churches have been called upon to give up their pastors to supply the crying need for men on the front line. No one can measure what the large reinforcement of this year will mean to our work in the years to come.

Cause for Encouragement.

Cause for Encouragement.

Cause for Encouragement,

"A cause for great encouragement is the manifest desire and purpose of our people in the nome land to advance. It is becoming common for churches and individuals to give the salary of a missionary ($500 or $600, according to location), and we believe it will become far more common as our people see their duty to the lost without Christ. One brother who has been giving the salary of a missionary for years, this year gave $5, 600. Another brother has asreed to give
$5,600 for the crection of a church bouse
in Sasebo, Japan, and two other brethern agree to give $1,000 or more for the crection of a school building in China. We praise God for the spirit of giving.
"We are also glad to report that there is among the missionaries a spirit of aggressiveness beautifully strengthened by harmony and unity of purpose. Our schools, medical work-including hospitals-hand publishing establishments, are growing and becoming more and more efficient."

Ten Years' Work.

Ten Years' Work.

Summing up the growth and progress of the work in the past decade the report says: "Ten years ago we had 91 missionaries, now 181; then 89 native helpers, now 293; then 85 churches on the fields, now 184; then 22 church buildings, now 182; then 1508 Sunday-school scholars, now 5,465; then 581 baptisms for the year, now 2,231; then 3,493 total membership after fifty years of work, now 11,423. In addition, our missionaries in many cases have been provided with comfortable, healthful homes. Then we have had no medical missionary and no hospitals—loday we have ten physicians, eight male and two female. We have two hospitals and croral dispensaries. Thousands were treated last year at these, and at the same time heard the Gospel."

"One of the greatest advances we have made," sare tree report, "is in school work. We need trained men and were men to help aimsg their own people. We found that we must teach them. Theological schools have been established and about one hindred men are being trained in these. Then, again, the children of our converts needed to be educated not into heathenism, but away from it. Many schools have been established for these. Some of these schools receive help from us. Many of them are partly or entirely self-sustaining. The number of the latter will greatly increase. One missionary in North China writes of 13 schools in his mission, with nearly 200 scholars, and the total cost to the Board of only $150."

The Negro Question.

There has been for several years considerable diversity of views among the Baptists represented in this convention, concerning the best methods of helping the negroes. The report, therefore, goes largely into a discussion of the matter, rehearsing the action of the convention from year to year, since long before the Civil War. At the last session of the convention, a commission was appointed to look into the whole subject and report. The Home Board's report contains an advance report made by this commission, as follows:

"The Commission of the Southern Baptist Convention on the work among the negroes held a meeting at the call of the Home Mission Board in Atlanta, Ga, on September 8 and 9. While the Commission does not feel that it is its duty to make a report at this time to the denomination at large, it does feel that it is desirable to make the following statement:

"I. In the prosecution of its work

"II. Such help as this Commission has been able to give the Board as to the various matters involved has been rendered by a very free and frank consultation with the Board. That it may be of yet greatet service, each member of the Commission is charged with the duty of making diligent inquiry into all facts touching the negroes general condition throughout the South."

The Commission will make a further and more extended report with recommendations to the convention before the body adjourns.

Co-operation the Watchword.

The Home Board all along has been moved by this aggressive thought, and for two years past the Convention has lingled with noble enthusiasm for larger things, but it was at Nashville that the Convention moved out into the open sea of opportunity. The Convention said to the Hop of God we shall take this Southland for the Baptists. Go forward!" It was enough for the Board. It was a clear bugle blast from headquarters. There was no room for halting. It was as if God himself had said: "Enlarge the place of thy tent and let them stretch forth the curtains of thine habitations." At once the appropriations of the Board were increased nearly fifty per cent, over any previous year.
